

2: This website is for an event recommendation, for the footer I have created this way to show my footer

3: For the issues if the saved connection page, I still don't know how to send the data to the table, like I added one event and how the table will update it?

4: The hardest part is to spend time to learn. I don't have any experience on javascript, so I am not sure how hard will be in the future. For the css html part, I think I still need some time to go over all the content.
